GREATEST BATTLE IS BEGINNING

Fight to Decide Whether Germans Will Enter France Through Belgium Is Opening

BY ED L. KEEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Italy and Japan held the attention of Britain today. The war feeling was reported intense in both countries. Italy's refusal to permit Austria to violate her neutrality to send reinforcements to Germany through Italian territory has intensified the feeling between the two countries. Japanese advisers agree that the government is being pressed to come to the defense of England to take possession of all of the German colonies in the far east.

Meanwhile, the situation in Belgium and along the Lorraine-Alsace frontiers continues acute. The German army is pushing forward against the Belgian cavalry screen along a battle front that extends from northeast of Diest far down into Belgium. It is admitted that severe fighting is in progress at a number of points.

The war office here, through the official press bureau, made a significant admission when it said there were plenty of indications that the Germans were trying to penetrate the left wing of the allies. Previously a dispatch from Brussels had shown that this movement was in progress south by east of Antwerp and it is now admitted that the great battle of the war which will decide whether Germany is to continue her march on France through Belgium or must drop back and try to find another gateway, is beginning. It will last many days.

All of the English war experts unite in warning Britons not to expect too much. They point out the wonderful efficiency of the German infantry, now coming into real action for the first time, and declare initial reverses will not spell ultimate defeat.

ITALY REFUSES AUSTRIA PASSAGE FOR TROOPS WAR MAY BE RESULT

ROME, Aug. 15.—Relations between Italy and Austria were dangerously near the breaking point today as the result of refusal of the Italian government to permit four army corps to pass across Italian territory enroute to reinforce the German army in Alsace.

Austria demanded the right in accordance with the existing treaty. Italy refused, the foreign office declaring that Italy intended to preserve her neutrality at all hazards. It is officially announced that any violation of Italian territory by any of the belligerents will be opposed with armed force.

PROMISES LIBERTY TO POLAND FOR SUPPORT OF THE RUSSIAN CAUSE

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 15.—Restoration of the ancient kingdom of Poland with its Russian, Austrian and German parts restored, is promised by the czar if the Poles remain loyal to the Russian cause. The proclamation was issued today by Grand Duke Nicholas, and later confirmed by the czar.

He declared that Polish autonomy will be guaranteed by Russia and all of the ancient principalities reunited under a lieutenant-governor to be named by the Russian ruler.

The people of Poland are to be granted in addition to territorial integrity, local autonomy, guarantees of religious freedom and the privilege of the Polish tongue.

MORRIS COUNTERS ONTED KRONSHAGE IN TELLING SHOT

The Appropriation Latter Charged Morris Supported Was for Dormitory for La Crosse Normal

REGENTS THEN TOOK IT AWAY

Board Controlled by Governor Robbed La Crosse and Gave Dormitory to Stevens Point

ALL FOR TOM IS STEADY WORD

Everywhere Morris Goes People Are for Him and Against McGovern by Wide Margin

STEVENS POINT, Wis., Aug. 15.—(Special.)—"It is a fact worthy of notice that while Ted Kronshage seems to have been industriously engaged in looking up records, he purposely neglected to include in Governor McGovern's 'Record of Achievement,' printed in the official campaign pamphlet, any mention of the fact that the governor was a delegate to the Chicago national convention."

This was the chief comment made by Lieut. Governor Morris, who arrived here tonight on his tour of the northern part of the state in the interests of his senatorial candidacy, upon the interview given out in Milwaukee by Theodore Kronshage, Jr., secretary of the McGovern campaign committee, in which Mr. Kronshage attempted to arraign Mr. Morris for his record while lieutenant governor.

"I supported appropriations for education," Mr. Morris added, just as he was about to mount the platform to address several hundred residents of Stevens Point, "which had been agreed upon by the board of normal school regents of which I was a member and Mr. Kronshage president. I have repeatedly stated so during my senatorial campaign. It is true, just as Mr. Kronshage says, that I appeared with him and other regents and normal school presidents, in support of these bills."

Mr. Morris landed here Thursday night after a whirlwind tour of Portage county during which he delivered several speeches, shook hands with a great many farmers and received assurances of support.

McGovern "Punished" La Crosse
Kronshage had charged Mr. Morris with "hypocrisy" in having urged certain school appropriations. Among those he urged was one for dormitories for the La Crosse normal. Later, despite the efforts of Wm. F. Wolfe, regent, E. J. Kneen and Mr. Morris, the board of regents, dominated by Kronshage, diverted this school from La Crosse to Stevens Point. It was charged at the time that the governor's hand was in this with the two-fold purpose of hurting Morris by injuring La Crosse and of making political capital at Stevens Point.

Mr. Morris' reference to McGovern's betrayal of La Follette in the presidential convention was in answer to McGovern's defense of his having turned bull moose by saying that at least the people knew where he was.

Tries to Mislead

Kronshage's only answer to Morris' reference to the governor's refusal to call the legislature together to reduce the taxes was to say that Morris' appeal for tax reduction was "a cheap political play."

Kronshage, who has been a member of the governor's law firm for years as well as president of "Uncle Ike's" Milwaukee Free Press, denied that the governor's board of public affairs

GERMANY BLAMES RUSSIA FOR WAR

Chancellor Calls it Life and Death Struggle Between Germans and Muscovites

SORRY TO SEE ENGLISH ENTER

Ask Unprejudiced View of the Situation Be Taken by the United States

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Marconi's wireless press has issued to the London papers the following German news officially circulated through the German wireless stations and received by the Marconi company:

"Berlin, Aug. 15.—In an interview the German imperial chancellor states:

"The war is a life and death struggle between Germany and the Muscovite races of Russia, and was due to the recent royal murders at Sarajevo."

"We warned Russia against kindling this world war. She demanded the humiliation of Austria, and while the German emperor continued his work in the cause of peace and the czar was telegraphing words of friendship to him, Russia was preparing for war against Germany."

France Compelled to Fight
"Highly civilized France, bound by her unnatural alliance with Russia, was compelled to prepare by strength of arms for an attack on its flank on the Franco-Belgian frontier in case we proceeded against the French frontier works. England, bound to France by obligations disowned long ago, stood in the way of a German attack on the northern coast of France."

"Necessity therefore forced us to violate the neutrality of Belgium, but we had promised emphatically to compensate that country for all damage inflicted."

"Now England avails herself of the long awaited opportunity to commence war for the destruction of commercially prosperous Germany. We enter into that war with our trust in God. Our eternal race has risen in the fight for liberty, as it did in 1813."

Sorry to Fight England
"It is with a heavy heart that we see England ranged among our opponents."

"Notwithstanding the blood relationship and close relationship in spiritual and cultural work between the two countries, England has placed herself on the side of Russia, whose instability and whose barbaric insolence have helped this war, the origin of which was murder, and the purpose of which was the humiliation and suppression of the German race by Russian Pan-Slavism."

"We expect that the sense of the American people will enable them to comprehend our situation. We invite their opinion as to the one-sided English representations and ask them to examine our point of view in an unprejudiced way."

"The sympathy of the American nation will then lie with German culture and civilization, fighting against a half-Asiatic and slightly cultured barbarism."

HUNTINGTONS NOT ARRESTED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Archer M. Huntington and family were not arrested in Nuremberg, Germany, the state department was officially advised today by the American consul at Hamburg. The Huntington family, he said, is enjoying the fullest liberty in that city. The only inconvenience was the requisitioning by the German government of their automobile.

LACROSSE WOMEN TO COMBAT PRICES IN BUYING LEAGUE

Twentieth Century and La Crosse Women's Clubs Follow General National Movement

La Crosse is to have a Housewives' league. The league for the purpose of planning means to reduce the cost of living caused by the war score, will be inaugurated at the first fall meeting of the Twentieth Century club, to be held September 1.

Following the example of many of the large cities of the country, the club here will plan to change the menu of the La Crosse housewife to conform with the housewife's pocketbook.

Mrs. G. P. Bradish, former president of the Twentieth Century club, spoke this morning in the absence of Mrs. Lillian Finch, 435 South Fourth street, newly elected president.

Mrs. Bradish said the subject of the present high cost of food stuffs and other commodities used in the La Crosse home was one of the subjects nearest the heart of every member of the club.

She said that although no move had been made to study the matter as yet, Mrs. Finch would probably take up the matter at the next meeting.

Mrs. Bradish believes by a concentrated effort on the part of the club women, and with the help of every housewife in La Crosse, a means can be found to materially reduce the cost of living.

North Side Also Interested
Will La Crosse's Housewives' league reduce prices?

In the opinion of Mrs. Alonzo Chubb, 1441 Wood street, former president of the La Crosse Woman's club, it will.

Although the women of the club have made no definite moves toward organization for market study, it is understood that at the next meeting of the club on September 9 motions will be considered for the founding of a league on the north side, the purpose of which will be to combat the steadily increasing cost of living.

Many of the members of the Woman's club have expressed favor with the idea.

GOVERNMENT FEEDS BELGIAN CHILDREN

Six Thousand School Children Fed Daily; Soldiers' Wives in Government Pay

BRUSSELS, Aug. 15.—Six thousand school children are being fed daily in Brussels by the government. Soup is distributed to all schools from a central station and within a short time it is expected that the number being fed will increase to 10,000.

Mme. Vanderveide, English wife of the Belgian socialist minister, is one of the leaders in the relief work. The soup being served to the school children is made of meat and vegetables donated by tradesmen. One of the schools has been turned into a government store. There flour and all other supplies may be purchased by the poor at reasonable prices. Later, if conditions become acute, no charge will be made. Each soldier's wife receives from the government fifteen cents a day and ten cents additional for each child.

The women of Belgium are doing everything possible to provide the soldiers in the field with little comforts. Mme. Vanderveide made a trip toward the frontier in an automobile with her husband, taking with her several hundred red silk handkerchiefs for the soldiers to protect the backs of their necks from the sun.

SERVIANS FORCE AUSTRIANS BACK

Simultaneous Effort to Cross Danube in Many Places Reported Defeated

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The first details of the situation along the Servian-Austrian frontier came today from several sources at Nish. The reports agree that after severe fighting the Servian-Montenegrin armies, which have been combined, drove the Austrians back with a loss running into the thousands.

The Austrians began a general movement Thursday night along the Danube from the Roumanian border to Belgrade. All night Thursday and until afternoon on Friday, the battle raged, the Servians slowly but surely pushing the Austrians back.

Meanwhile, an Austrian force numbering 40,000 men, with all branches represented, crossed the Save river from Klenac to Schabatz, and effected a junction with another Austrian force entrenched at Loinitz. They were attacked by the Servian army and continuous fighting was reported in progress there today.

ARMIES DRAW CLOSE FOR FIRST BATTLE OF MASSED FORCES

FRENCH ADVANCE INTO ALSACE TO TAKE STRASSBURG

Objective of the Offensive Movement Is German Stronghold on the Border

CLAIM CONTROL OF VOSGES

General Staff Says All the Passes of Mountains Are Held by the French

GERMANS IN FORCE AT LONGWY

War Office Silent About Situation There but Battle Is Expected Soon

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS, Aug. 15.—The French have taken the offensive all through the Vosges mountains. Desperate resistance is being encountered, but the French advance continues to move slowly forward and war office officials foresee the investment of Strassburg early next week. This is the objective of the French offensive in Alsace. The former capital of Alsace-Lorraine is strategically located at exactly the base desired by the general staff for its campaign into Germany. Its capture would arouse the wildest enthusiasm everywhere in France and would be accepted as an indication that the "lost provinces" are again coming home.

Hold Vosges Passes
While details of the fighting are withheld the general staff claims the army now holds all of the passes through the Vosges and have mounted improved artillery at every point of vantage. In the fighting which has now continued for more than a week the French army officers maintain that the Germans have suffered most.

The Germans have been handicapped by the inferiority of their ammunition. Hundreds of their explosive shells, which were expected to cause terrible havoc in the French ranks, have proved ineffective and have failed to explode. In addition, the French claim to have shown a marked superiority on the offensive. It is declared that the German columns, while fighting magnificently at long range, have failed to stand up against the bayonet charges of the French infantry.

Belgians Fall Back
The German advance was very slowly but surely moving against the Belgian front today. It will be two or three days before the real battle develops, as the Belgians will slowly fall back on the defensive lines along the front of Brussels, where the allied armies are now entrenched awaiting the assault. The Germans realize the strength of the army in front and will not attack in force until their entire reserves are in position, but the next two days are expected to be marked with constant skirmishing gradually increasing in strength until the entire armies are engaged.

The war office continues to remain mute concerning happenings in the neighborhood of Longwy and Montmedy, but it is known that the Germans are present there in force and an organized advance will not long be delayed.

MUST STAY IN SWITZERLAND

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—The state department was asked in a cable from the American minister at Berne, Switzerland, to inform all schools and colleges in the United States that teachers must remain in Switzerland until their transportation back to the United States has been arranged. The minister advises all school boards in this country to take notice of the situation there.

MINE DROWNS 143

TRIESTE, Austria, Aug. 15.—It was officially announced that today 143 were drowned and 157 passengers and crew saved when the Lloyd-Austrian steamer Baron Gautsch was destroyed off the Island of Lussin yesterday. The mine literally blew the entire forward part of the steamer to pieces. The vessel sank almost immediately.

DANISH PORT CLEAR

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—Transportation by water is safe between Esbjerg, Denmark, and England, the American charge at Copenhagen advised the state department today. He said a relief ship is unnecessary there.

TAKE BRUSSELS AT ANY COST IS WORD GIVEN TO GERMANS

Captured Officers Say the General Staff Is Willing to Spend 100,000 Lives if Necessary

GERMANS ADVANCING SLOWLY

Cavalry Is Checked by Belgian Horsemen but Infantry Moves Forward Entrenching

SITUATION IS ACUTE TODAY

Germans Have 300,000 Men Moving on Allied Army and Several-Day Battle Is Coming

BRUSSELS, Aug. 15.—The German infantry in very heavy force is moving forward in an effort to envelope the left wing of the allied army to the south by east of Antwerp. It is admitted here that a general attack in force may already be in progress, the officials believing that the German objective is to penetrate the line of the allies and to drive the extreme left back on Antwerp.

(From a United Press Press Staff Correspondent.)

BRUSSELS, Aug. 15.—The German advance is checked, at least momentarily. After feeling out the Belgian lines at various points from Diest and Malines along the Meuse river to Belgian Luxembourg, the German forward movement gave way before wild assaults by Belgian cavalry which cleared the ground of the Prussian Chans. The German infantry remain in their trenches, however, and the heavy masses of reinforcements are being moved forward, slowly but steadily. The German artillery is in position and a long range artillery duel, which ended in daybreak, continues.

News Is Cut Off
How acute the situation really is, is best shown by the shutting down on news from the front. None is permitted to come through. This is interpreted as meaning the German infantry are now in touch with the allied forces, and that the next forward movement of the Germans must involve the entire armies. When it comes, it must of necessity last for several days, as the Germans have 300,000 men of all branches on their front, and a reserve admitted enormous. Captured German officers admit that the German general staff has decreed the complete subjugation of Belgium, including the capture of Brussels, at any cost. They also emphasize that the general staff is ready to sacrifice 100,000 men to break the allied line.

Dispatches report that the stubborn defense of Liege has completely disheartened the German attacking force. It is claimed that last night, in the series of desperate charges against the forts on the left bank of the Meuse, entire regiments were again wiped out by the rain of explosives from the forts and that the ground immediately in front of the chief forts was literally covered with dead and wounded.

The report persists here that Gen. Von Emmich, in command of the entire operations at Liege, killed himself when he failed to capture the forts. Prisoners declare that he is dead and that he has been succeeded by Gen. Marquitz. But whether Gen. Von Emmich was killed in action or killed himself is something that the war office here professes to be unable to clear up.

It is also claimed that Gen. Von Buelow, brother of the former German imperial chancellor, was killed while leading an attack on the Liege forts.

Say Commissary Failed.

That the German commissary department utterly failed in the test and that this is the chief reason why the general advance is still delayed, is stated by Belgian officials familiar with the situation. They declare that so anxious were officers to get their commands to the front that they sacrificed equipment, and that the long trains laden with the food supplies were sidetracked and left behind. Now the infantry is halted until food supplies can be brought.

An official note dealing with this phase of the situation said that the rations for one entire regiment for a day consisted only of one sausage and a couple of spoonfuls of dried peas and a small square of bread per man.

The Belgian army, heavily reinforced, holds a line running from the neighborhood of Diest and Ma-

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

FISHERMAN'S LUCK

By CONSTANCE LEE

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Hannah Mead read the telegram with a smiling face. Of all the Woodward family who came down to visit the old homestead, Peter was her favorite.

"Expect me at noon Thursday. Chicken and waffles, Peter W." "Bless his heart, chicken and waffles indeed!" chuckled the old housekeeper as she hurried to make preparations.

"Jake!" she called to her nephew, man-of-all-work about the place. "You go over to Winston's and get some of Miss Bessy's strained honey. Mr. Peter will want it for his waffles; and when you come back you can kill two fat pullets. There's no time to waste. I've got to hang clean curtains in the green room."

When Peter Woodward reached the Oaks he was greeted by the appetizing odor of frying chicken.

"Well, Miss Hannah, you are a dear!" he cried enthusiastically as he wrung her toil-worn hands. "You grow younger every day!"

"Mr. Peter, you grow handsomer yourself," retorted Hannah. Later, when luncheon was over and Peter sat thoughtfully smoking his pipe in the rose-covered side porch, Hannah's look of happiness gave place to one of anxiety.

Surely, Peter Woodward might be as handsome as ever in his dark, clean-cut way, but heavy shadows brooded in his gray eyes and his finely modeled lips were set grimly about the stem of his pipe.

"Mr. Peter is in trouble," worried Hannah as she returned to her duties. "I hope it hasn't anything to do with business—but no, it couldn't be that because his pa said Peter was the mainstay of the business."

"Any fishing in the old brook, Hannah?" asked Peter before he went to bed that night. "There ought to be, Mr. Peter," was the housekeeper's reply. "Jake has been most particular to keep poachers off, and he brought in a mess of trout last Sunday. All your fishing tackle is locked up in the harness room closet, just as you left it last time you came down."

"I'll try my luck in the morning, Hannah."

The next morning was an ideal fisherman's day, cloudy, bright and cool.

Peter, who was looking anything but downcast this June morning, was soon on his way through the orchard with rod and reel. He climbed over a rail fence into the oak woods and struck into a narrow wood road that led gently down to the brown brook that bounded the estate on the east.

He found Jake Mead hanging a basket of luncheon on a sapling, and his heart glowed warmly at this evidence of Miss Hannah's thoughtfulness.

"Well, Jake, I suppose I shall have the brook to myself," said Peter, as he sat down on a fallen tree trunk. "No other fishermen around these parts."

"Except Miss Kit from next door," said Jake eagerly. "She's fishing around from morning till night."

Peter frowned as he opened his fly book.

"She can scare the fish away," he said emphatically. "Who is Miss Kit?"

"Dr. Fenn's daughter, sir. You used to play with her when you were a little lad—but after your pa and the doctor had trouble over the boundary line, there was ill feeling between the families, and the visiting stopped. The Fenns have lived abroad for the last ten years. Miss Kit is an outdoors girl."

Peter fitted the joints of his rod together and flicked his line into the stream with an impatient gesture.

"A lot of fun I can get out of fishing with a red-headed, freckle-faced girl around," he muttered.

All day he thrashed the brook without success and at sunset he returned to the house with an empty reel.

"Fisherman's luck," comforted Hannah, as she set dinner on the table in the big dining room.

"I'm afraid that girl from next door spoiled the fishing in brown brook," complained Peter.

"Did you see her today, Mr. Peter?" asked Hannah, anxiously.

"No; I suppose she has done all the damage she could and is keeping out of the way."

Hannah Mead doubted very much if Kitty Fenn had frightened many fish away from the brook, and she smiled secretly at the very idea. She laid Peter's peevishness to a disappointment in love—in fact, that very morning she had received a long letter from Peter's fond mother, begging Hannah to look out for her boy because he was breaking his heart over some heartless coquette with whom he fancied he was in love.

"Poor Mr. Peter—he's all of thirty years old and he can't be foolish enough to break his heart over some silly chit!" argued Hannah.

The next morning Peter set forth again in quest of speckled trout. Better luck awaited him today. Three small ones were in his basket when he cast his fly across the stream to touch the surface of a dotted still pool in the shadow of a rock.

The hook tinkled against the rock. Peter muttered something under his breath and made another cast. The rod slipped a little and the line swirled sharply to the right, where the brook turned abruptly at right angles. The hook disappeared and caught in something.

A slight scream came from around the bend of the stream. Peter slackened his line and cautiously made his way around among the willows until he discovered the fish he had caught.

He was startled at the sight. She was such a pretty fish, or perhaps one would have called her a mermaid, for her feet and ankles were in the stream and her glorious ripples of red-gold hair fell far below her waist. In this unconfined radiance of red and gold was enmeshed Peter's hook, while his favorite fly was perched like a white moth amid the tresses.

"I am sorry, please wait a moment and I will detach the hook," apologized Peter as he approached the girl.

"Oh—it startled me for a moment, I did not know any one was near," said his captive as he fumbled with the silky fineness of her hair. "Never mind fussing over it—just break it off, please!"

Reluctantly, Peter drew out his penknife and snipped the hopelessly tangled hairs from her head. When, at last the hook was freed, the white moth was beautified by a mist of red-gold hair. Peter promptly detached the hook and guiltily put it in his pocket just as the girl turned around and looked up at him.

"How do you do, Peter Woodward?" she asked coolly as she put out a slender hand.

"It's not—Kitty Fenn?" hazarded Peter for he was sure that the homely little girl he had played with years ago could never grow into this charming young woman.

"It is Kitty Fenn—and if you will be so good as to help me up, I will take my feet out of the brook. I slipped in when your hook caught me and I have ruined my new white shoes."

Peter assisted Kitty to arise and then he knelt in the dampness and carefully dried the little shoes as best he might with a pocket handkerchief.

"I hate to send you home," he said reluctantly, "but those wet shoes mean a hard cold if you don't change them. May I suggest that the fish will still be biting when you return?"

Kitty smiled demurely. "I shall not return today," she sighed. "Father has forbidden my coming to the brook but I simply cannot keep away; and it does seem a pity that his quarrel with Judge Woodward should prevent my enjoying the dear old brown brook, doesn't it?"

"It does, indeed," agreed Peter emphatically. "I wonder if I couldn't persuade Dr. Fenn that we Woodward don't bear any grudge on account of that old dispute?"

"That's sweet of you; when your people won the suit!"

Peter looked the dismay he felt. "We did? You see, I never really knew—but whatever it was about, I'm sure it wasn't worth quarrelling about with our neighbors."

"I'm afraid you are not a clever lawyer," laughed Kitty.

"I am a successful fisherman," retorted Peter boldly.

He could not see Kitty's face as she led the way to the narrow door in the wall which led into Dr. Fenn's property.

Hannah Mead opened her eyes wide when Peter came whistling home with three tiny trout in his basket and a look of contentment on his face.

"Is that all you caught, Mr. Peter?" asked Hannah, when she opened the basket. "You were gone five hours, too!"

"Fisherman's luck, Hannah," laughed Peter. "I'm going out after lunch—can you hustle the meal along? Thanks. And Hannah, do you know where the tennis rackets are?"

"In the hall cupboard, Mr. Peter. And, Mr. Peter," went on Hannah slyly, "did you happen to see anything of Miss Kitty Fenn this morning?"

Peter reddened as he thrust his face over the bannister. "Why—er—yes, Hannah. I met her at the brook, I'm going over to play tennis this afternoon."

Hannah waited until she had closed the dining room door before she broke into a delighted chuckle. "I knew he'd change his mind if he met Miss Kitty. Fisherman's luck! The rascal!"

And Peter Woodward, standing in his room, was looking tenderly at a fish hook which was glorified by wisps of red-gold hair.

"Fisherman's luck!" he murmured, as he put it safely away. Kitty Fenn, brushing the tangles where those golden wisps had been snipped, whispered softly to herself, "Fisherman's luck!"

Origin of "Uncle Sam." The name Uncle Sam was first used in Troy, N. Y., in 1812, when some goods bought for the government and marked U. S. were inspected by Samuel Wilson, a government employee, whose nickname was Uncle Sam. The similarity of the initials suggested the adoption, and the familiar picture was soon created.

"Oh, yes! I found it in childhood, and I have never lost it," she replied. "But you are wrinkled, and your hair is gray!" cried the old Spaniard.

"To be sure; to be sure! But I am always happy, always smiling, never in a hurry. I never take my pleasures sadly nor too many of them. I haven't much money; but, you see, my needs are few. In fact, the fountain of perpetual youth is in one's own heart. Of course if you wish to look young I cannot tell where that fountain of youth is."

"Do you think old Ponce de Leon ever found the fountain for himself?"

Where the Story — Fountain of Youth Is Hidden.

"DADDY, is there really a fountain of youth?" cried both kiddies eagerly one evening. "We heard something about it today."

"Why, yes!" laughed daddy. "Suppose we let the funny little old Spaniard, Ponce de Leon, with his queer dress and wistful wrinkled old face, find it right here in this little town. We'll set him down on the corner of Main street. Now, there he is!"

"A dapper young man came hurriedly along. The old Spaniard stopped him. Making a low bow, he said: 'Good day, kind sir. Prithce, tell me where the fountain of youth is to be found?'"

"Don't detain me, old man," the youth said rudely. "Can't you see that I am in very much of a hurry? Besides, don't ask me about the fountain of youth. I have worked so hard to make money that I have forgotten all about youth." The young man passed on.

"A pretty young girl approached, or, rather, she would have been pretty had not her face been disfigured by a frown. 'Will you tell me, my pretty maid, where I can find the fountain of perpetual youth?' asked the poor tottering old Spaniard.

"Oh, don't ask me that!" cried the girl fretfully. "I feel as old as the hills. I have dinner and dance engagements. I have clothes to buy and about a million things to do, and I feel about a million years old myself. I hope you find it, though," she added wistfully.

"So he kept asking all the young people, and after awhile he grew so discouraged that he thought he would give it up, when along came a dear little old lady with the silverest hair and the sweetest smile and the softest dark eyes twinkling behind her spectacles, and she was about five feet tall.

"And she was stopped by the old man. He swept off his hat with its long feather and made a very low bow and said hopefully, for there was something in her face that inspired him with hope, 'Prithce, madam, can you direct me to the fountain of perpetual youth?'"

"Oh, yes! I found it in childhood, and I have never lost it," she replied. "But you are wrinkled, and your hair is gray!" cried the old Spaniard.

"To be sure; to be sure! But I am always happy, always smiling, never in a hurry. I never take my pleasures sadly nor too many of them. I haven't much money; but, you see, my needs are few. In fact, the fountain of perpetual youth is in one's own heart. Of course if you wish to look young I cannot tell where that fountain of youth is."

"Do you think old Ponce de Leon ever found the fountain for himself?"

FIRST USE OF RESINOL STOPS TERRIBLE ITCH

Jan. 27, 1914: "I suffered over eight years with eczema. It started in one little place and kept spreading until it covered my hands. My hands looked like they had been burned by fire and peeled off in large pieces until they were only raw flesh. I was told it was eczema. It itched and burned me so that I could not sleep at night. I tried all sorts of eczema salves and one prescription after another but nothing gave me any relief until I tried Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment, and after the first application my hands never itched or burned again, and were well in one week. I want every sufferer from eczema to know that they can find a cure in Resinol." (Signed) Miss Ethel Scott, Milstead, Ga.

Physicians have prescribed Resinol for nineteen years, for all sorts of skin troubles, pimples, dandruff, sores, ulcers, burns, etc. Every druggist sells Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap.

Artificial Flowers an Old Idea. Artificial flowers were made in ancient times by the Egyptians. In Europe during the eighteenth century, when there existed such a craze for porcelain, flowers were made of this substance; while the odor of real flowers was imitated by use of perfumes.

BIG FEATURE TO START AT LYRIC

All lovers of problem plays will welcome the coming of the new serial picture produced by the Universal Film Co., which opens at the Lyric Sunday, August 16th.

Louis Vance, author of The Brass Bowl, The Black Flag and The Lone Wolf, was paid $15,000 to write the scenario for this thrilling thirty-one reel motion picture.

Cleo Madison and George Larkin, well known Universal stars, play the title roles in "The Treys of Hearts," the scenes in the first chapter, which is in three reels, are laid in Bear Valley, Cal., and the lives of the picture actors and camera men were in danger during the taking of scenes in the rapids of Owen river.

The story is very unusual, a playing card, the little treys of hearts, being an important factor of the play.

The Lyric will show one chapter of this by serial picture every Sunday, starting August 16th.

A. E. BLEEKMAN,
Notary Public.A CAMPAIGN OF DECEPTION

Just around the corner off Main street on Fourth, north, in the old "Home-Coming" booth, is a cubby-hole bearing the sign:

"La Crosse County Republican Headquarters."

It was established by the Bancroft-Philipp-Barber stalwart machine which supported Karel for governor two years ago, Dave Rose before that, and which has not supported a republican state ticket in years.

The La Crosse county republican county committee has nothing to do with these headquarters. Neither the chairman nor the secretary, nor any member of the republican county committee was consulted or has anything to do with them. The name was selected with the deliberate intention of creating the impression that the place is exactly what it is NOT—the republican county committee headquarters.

The trick is in keeping with the deception which is the foundation of the entire stalwart campaign.

A pretense of economy covers a scheme to destroy state control and regulation of trusts, public utilities and other institutions seeking to thrive on special privilege.

A pretense of holding a "republican convention" covered a scheme to give color of regularity to a cut-and-dried meeting framed to foist Railroad-Pass Bancroft and Eleventh-

Story Philipp upon the people as candidates of a party they have been bolting for years.

A pretense (locally) contained in the name, "Republican County Headquarters," carries out the scheme to fool republican voters into voting for arch enemies of the republican party of Wisconsin.

Small business! But not smaller than the vote these worthy corporation candidates will receive in the coming primaries.

THE REAL
"MENACE"

Considerable has been said about the "menace" of a "Germanized Europe" should the kaiser win.

There might be bad results were Germany, victorious, to become an over-balancing power. Complete domination by any government begets arrogance, and Germany is not without its ambitions.

But has anyone thought what the "Russianizing" of Europe would mean? Ask the Jews, the Finlanders, the Poles, the Balkans. Ask Norway and Sweden where the czar would get his long coveted Atlantic seaport. Ask the Russian serfs. Ask the banished hordes in Siberia.

THE WILL OF THE MAJORITY SHALL RULE

By the publication of long and involved tabulated statements pretending to explain the second choice voting at primaries and elections, stalwart papers are attempting to confuse readers.

A labyrinthine article of this kind which recently appeared in The Milwaukee Sentinel was so purposely confusing as to entangle trained lawyers and civil engineers, and the layman who read it and believed it was the simplest word upon the subject must have mentally discarded the second choice in mystification and disgust.

Don't be fooled. There is nothing puzzling or intricate about the law. It can be explained in the following simple language.

Suppose there are five candidates for an office, A, B, C, D and E. Suppose you want A elected, but if he can't be elected, you prefer D.

The second choice law merely provides that you may vote for A, and that if A is defeated, your vote counts for D, your second choice.

Is there anything mysterious about that?

ALL THE REST
GUM-SHOEING

Why is it that Thomas Morris is the only senatorial candidate to outline his position on the treatment of swollen fortunes, trusts and monopolies; the only one to offer a constructive program of national legislation for farmers and labor?

Can it be because other candidates either have no plans for legislation, or entertain friendship for "big business" which seals their lips?

SIDE-STEP IT
OR WRECK IT

We don't care what the laws are, if they let us administer them.

A leading stalwart once delivered himself of the above interesting bit of frankness.

That was in the "good old days" when the reactionaries had no hope of controlling the legislature. But even in the bad new days the legislature is but a faint hope to them. Monday The Sentinel said:

The great advantage of electing a legislature to match must of course not be overlooked by supporters of Mr. Philipp.

You see, it would be far better to repeal laws hostile to special interests than simply to ignore them. While law is nothing between friends, non-feasance and mal-administration are to be avoided if possible.

A dark cloud, financially speaking, is one without a silver lining.

You can't tell what a man knows by what he doesn't say.

and Wanton Wiles

Cheer Up

I'm not afraid of hoodoos,
That's very plain to see;
I was born on a Friday,
The thirteenth. Yep, that's me.
I walk right under ladders,
I spill salt at my will;
I've also smashed a mirror,
And I'm around here still.Around my chair I amble
The wrong way every time
When I am playing poker.
I have contempt sublime
For people superstitious,
I never knock on wood;
I ne'er pick up a horseshoe,
And don't see why I should.I don't believe in bad luck,
It is a foolish thing;
Whatever you imagine—
That's what your fate will bring.
There's no use looking forward
To sorrow, you'll allow,
If Trouble's going to get you,
'Twill get you, anyhow.

His Only Concern

A member of the Providence bar one day met an able and conscientious judge on the street and said to him:

"I see, judge, that the supreme court has overruled you in the case of A. vs. Z., but you need feel no concern about your reputation."
"No, indeed," answered the judge complacently; "I don't. I'm only concerned about the reputation of the supreme court."—Lippincott's.

Properly Clothed

However brave the policeman are, they are careful about not breaking the laws and ordinances. A patrolman was kicking his feet down on the lake front the other morning, when an excited citizen ran up to him and cried: "Say, hurry up! A man has just jumped off the pier!"

"With his clothes on?" asked the officer.

"Yes—fully dressed. Hurry!"

"What do you want me to do? There ain't no ordinance against a man swimmin' as long as he's properly dressed."

COMPLEXION RUINED
BY PIMPLES

Itched and Burned Badly. Also Had Blackheads. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. In Two Weeks Completely Well.

724 E. N. Ave., Olney, Ill.—"When my trouble first began I noticed little pimples coming on my face. They itched and burned so badly that I had to scratch them and that only made them worse. About a week later my face was so badly covered with pimples and blackheads that I was ashamed. My complexion was ruined. The pimples would sometimes bleed and fester."

"I bought a box of Cuticura cream and used it but without effect. I also bought some ——— and complexion cream but with the same poor result. One day I heard of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I decided to give them a trial. So I got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment, washed my face with the Soap and applied the Ointment and in two weeks I was completely well." (Signed) Chas. E. McGinn, May 5, 1914.

Aroused Her Curiosity After All.

"Don't want any," said a housekeeper from her second story window to a street vender whose covered wagon was standing a few steps away and who had just pulled the bell.

"Don't want any what?" gruffly asked the vender, who hadn't had even a chance to tell what his wares were.

"What have you got?" asked the housekeeper, whose curiosity was getting the better of her annoyance.

"Oh, never mind. You don't want any. Git up, Bob!"

Little Aleck was in the train the other day and in the seat opposite to him was an old pensioner whose breast was covered with medals.

Aleck gazed at him and the medals long and earnestly and at last said to his mother:

"Mamma, why does that man wear his money on his coat? Won't they let him have pockets?"

"Now, now, never mind! I'll not charge you anything for the decorations."

But Brick Willock had been one of them and he had killed their leader, and their leader's brother, or at least had brought them to the verge of death. If Red Kimball revived, he would doubtless right his wrongs, should Willock live to be punished.

In the meantime, it was for them to treat with the traitor—this giant of a Texan, huge-whiskered, slow of speech, who had been first to throw himself into the thick of danger, but who had always hung back from deeds of cruelty. He had plundered coaches and wagon-trains with them, he had fought with them against strong bodies of emigrants, he had killed and burned—in the eyes of the world his deeds had made him one of them, and his aspect marked him as the most dangerous of the band. But they had always felt the difference—and now they meant to kill him not only because he had overpowered their leader but because of this difference.

As their bullets pursued him, Willock lay along the body of the broncho, feeling his steel very small, and himself very large—and yet, despite the rain of lead, his pleasure over the escape of the child warmed his heart. The sand was plowed up by his side from the peeping of bullets—but he seemed to feel that innocent unconscious arm about his great neck; the yells of rage were in his ears, but he heard the soft breathing of the little one fast asleep in the midst of her dangers.

He had selected for himself, and for Gledware, ponies that had often been run against each other, and which no others of all Red Kimball's corral could surpass in speed.

Gledware and the child were on the pony that Kimball had once staked against the swiftest animal the Indians could produce—and Willock rode the pride of the Indian band, which had almost won the prize. The ponies had been staked on the issue of that encounter—and the highwaymen had retained, by right of craft and force, what the government would not permit its wards to barter or sell.

The race was long but always unequal. The ruffians who had dashed from the scene of the cabin almost in an even line, scattered and straggled unevenly; now only two were able to send bullets whistling about Willock's head; now only one found it possible to cover the distance. At last even he fell out of range. The Indian pony, apparently tireless, shot on like an arrow driven into the teeth of the wind, sending up behind a cloud of dust that stretched backward toward the baffled pursuers, a long wavering ribbon like a clew left to guide the hand into the mysterious depths of the Great American Desert.

When the last of the pursuers found further effort useless, he checked his horse. Willock now sat erect on the broncho's bare back, lightly clasping the halter. Looking behind, he saw seven horsemen in varying degrees of remoteness, motionless, doubtless fixing their wolfish eyes on his fleeing form. As long as he could distinguish these specks against the sky, they remained stationary. To his excited imagination they represented a living wall drawn up between him and the abode of men. Should he ever venture back to that world, he fancied those seven avengers would be waiting to receive him with taunts and drawn weapons.

And his conscience told him that the taunts would be merited, for he had turned traitor, he had failed in the only virtue on which his fellow criminals prided themselves. Yes, he was a traitor; and by the only justice he acknowledged, he deserved to die. But the child who had lain so trustfully upon his wild bosom, who had clung to him as to a father—she was safe! An unwonted smile crept under the bristling beard of the fugitive, as he urged the pony forward in unrelaxing speed. Should he seek refuge among civilized communities, his crimes would hang over his head—if not discovered, the fear of discovery would be his, day and night. To venture into his old haunts in No-Man's Land would be to expose his back to the assassin's knife, or his breast to the ambush of murderers. He dared not seek asylum among the Indians, for while bands of white men were safe enough in the Territory, single white men were at the mercy of the moment's caprice—and certainly, if found astride that Indian pony which the agent had ordered restored to its owner, his life would not be worth a thought.

These were desperate reflections, and the future seemed framed in solitude, yet Brick Willock rode on with that odd smile about the grim lips. The smile was unlike him—but, the whole affair was such an experience as had never entered the most daring fancy. Never before in his life had he held a child in his arms, still less had he felt the sweet embrace of peaceful slumber. To another man it might have meant nothing; but to this great rough fellow, the very sight of whom had often struck terror to the heart, that experience seemed worth all the privations he foresaw.

The sun had risen when the pony, after a few tottering steps, suddenly sank to earth. Willock unfastened the halter from its neck, tied it with the lariat about his waist, and without pause, set out afoot. If the pony died from the terrible strain of that unremitting flight, doubtless the roving Indians of the plain would find it and try to follow his trail; if it survived he would be safer if not found near it. In either case, swift flight was still imperative, and the shifting sand, beaten out of shape by the constant wind, promised not to retain his footprints.

Though stiff from long riding, the change of motion soon brought renewed vigor. Willock had grown thirsty, and as the sun rose higher and beat down on him from an unclouded sky, his eyes searched the plains eagerly for some shelter that promised water. He did not look in vain. Against the horizon rose the low blue shapes of the Wichita Mountains, looking at first like flat sheets of card-board, cut out by a careless hand and set upright in the sand.

As he toiled toward this refuge, not a living form appeared to dispute his sovereignty of the desert world. His feet sank deep in the sand, then trod lightly over vast stretches of short sun-burned mesquite, then again traversed hot shifting reaches of naked sand. The mountains seemed to recede as he advanced, and at times stifling dust and relentless heat threatened to overpower him. With dogged determination he told himself; that he might be forced to drop from utter exhaustion, but it would not be yet—not yet—one more mile, or, at least, another half-mile. So he advanced, growing weaker, breathing with more difficulty, but still muttering, "Not yet—not just yet!"

Wilding and Brookes Defeat Williams and McLoughlin in Two Straight Sets in Doubles

FOREST HILLS, Aug. 15.—Brookes and Wilding, the Australasian representatives, took the first two sets, 6-3, 8-6, in the doubles match in the challenge play for the Davis cup yesterday.

They centered their attack on Thomas C. Bundy of the American team. McLoughlin playing invincible tennis. The man who defeated Brookes Thursday had his cannon ball serves working and his returns were lightninglike.

The Americans took a brace in the second set and won three straight games by a splendid exhibition of the game. McLoughlin and Bundy tried lobbing the ball and leading their opponents, forcing many net returns. Brookes and Wilding took the fourth game, mostly because of a sudden streak of wildness developed by McLoughlin.

The Australasians took the fifth and sixth games, one of them on McLoughlin's hitherto invincible service. Bundy was playing a brilliant fast game, but he and McLoughlin several times interfered with each other. The set went to deuce. The Australasians won the second set, 8-6.

"Whys" of European War Moves Explained By Military Expert

BY J. W. T. MASON
(Formerly European Manager of the United Press.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—11 a. m.—Germany's reconnaissances have now explored Belgian territory thirty miles into the interior from Liege, more than half way to Brussels. The curtain behind which the kaiser's skirmishers in force have penetrated, forms almost a perpendicular from north to south through Herenthals, Aerschot, Tirlemont and Namur. The first three towns are important railway centers and Namur, guarding the allies' right, probably by this time is better fortified than Liege.

Brussels is twenty miles to the rear and about in the center of this line. Somewhere between Brussels and the Herenthals-Tirlemont-Namur curtain the allies have concentrated their main Belgian forces, while their outposts are trying to check the German efforts to discover the secret.

North and west of the Meuse and east of Herenthals-Namur line is now practically frontier territory, except for the Liege forts. It seems probable the great battle, when it begins, will not be in this district, unless some tactical error by the Germans causes the allies to leap forward on the offensive. Otherwise the field doubtless will be within twenty miles east of Brussels. It is a principle of modern warfare that victories are won by offensive and not defensive movements. Nevertheless the allies cannot afford to attempt to turn the tables on Germany and change their defensive attitude in Belgium into an offensive one. The higher strategy must take into consideration Russia's slow mobilization, and the tremendous advantage of delaying Germany's western advance.

The risk of a victory, of course, is greater than the risk of a drawn battle. The latter, at this stage of the war would be almost as disastrous to Germany as a defeat, because of the time given to the slow moving Slavs to draw their lines about the German eastern frontier. Thus, a defensive Belgian campaign for the moment is excellent strategy for the allies.

The news from Diest that the standard of the Death's Head hussars has been captured confirms the report that the Russian frontier has been denuded of the first line fighters. The headquarters of the Death's Head hussars is Posen, one of the main centers of the defenses against Russia. The Death's Head hussars is the kaiser's favorite regiment. It has been given traditionally the motto: "Never take prisoners."

Senatorial Candidate Advises Electors to Adopt Initiative, Referendum and Recall

"TAKE CONTROL YOURSELVES"

Auto Tour Through Central Wisconsin Develops United Support for La Crosse Man

PHILIPP IS ROUNDLY SCORED

Reactionary Gubernatorial Aspirant Is Declared a Former Standpat Lobbyist of Interests

GRAND RAPIDS, Wis., Aug. 15.

Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris, who is touring central Wisconsin in the interests of his candidacy for United States senator, advised the voters in a speech here today to take the control of the taxes into their own hands by the adoption of the initiative, referendum and recall, and to not place it in the hands of a Philipp administration, which, he said, would take a dollar in indirect taxation for every cent it saved in direct taxation.

"Mr. Philipp and the rest of the reactionary slate were named by a group of men who have opposed from the beginning progressive legislation in this state and who gathered with a single purpose—to nominate a man for governor who would destroy, if elected, the work of the last fifteen years. A comparison of the delegates to the Madison convention and the list of lobbyists on file in the office of the secretary of state will show that the stalwart convention was composed very largely of the men who have been the hired lobbyists of the railroads and other special interests.

"Philipp a foe of Progressives. "Progressive legislation has, in the past, been opposed by Lobbyist Philipp and his colleagues upon the ground that it was socialistic. Now they oppose it on the ground of lowering state expenditures. But, in the same breath, they oppose constitutional amendments to be voted upon in November, providing for the initiative, referendum and recall. If these amendments are adopted, the people themselves will have direct control of appropriations, as well as all other legislation.

"In what manner do you think you will most effectively prevent exorbitant appropriations—by electing Mr. Philipp, who will destroy the work of the last fifteen years in Wisconsin and burden you again with excessive utility rates and discriminatory taxation meaning millions of dollars a year, or by electing a governor who will continue the progressive policy of this state, and by adopting the initiative, referendum and recall, which will give you direct control over all legislation, including the appropriations?

"Take the control into your own hands. Do not place it in the hands of one who has so small an opinion of your own government, and to attempt to deceive you into permitting him to engineer a deal by which the special interests will take from you a dollar in indirect taxation for every cent a Philipp administration would save you in direct taxes."

The lieutenant governor is concluding a week's automobile tour of Outagamie, Brown, Waupaca, Waushara, Portage and Wood counties. He has made many speeches to large crowds every day and reports united progressive republican support of his candidacy.

La Crosse Man First in Special Event; La Crosse Men Eliminated in Final Play

Three Kenosha golfers, one from Racine, two from Blue Mound, one from Janesville and Ned Allis of Milwaukee remained in the field at the end of the first two elimination rounds of the state golf tournament yesterday at Milwaukee, as a result of the fast play of the day, when thirty-two championship hopes started their strenuous day. Here are the winners to date: Gordon Guilbert, a youngster of 16 from Racine; Fred Zwaska, the Blue Mound champion; Al Schaller, one of the state's best known veterans and twice runner-up for the state title; Price M. Davis, twice Blue Mound club champion; Dick Cavanaugh, Kenosha, three times state's champion, and C. D. Barnes of Kenosha. Many scores during the day were close to par, notably Barnes, who went 76, two over par, to beat A. R. Hinkley, former Blue Mound champion.

The scores made yesterday by La Crosse men are as follows: In the first round championship fight R. D. Gordon defeated S. C. Anderson of Kenosha, 1 up; George Van Auker defeated T. C. McLaughlin of Blue Mound, 2 up and 1 to go, and P. M. Gelatt was defeated by A. R. Hinkley of Blue Mound, by 4 up and 3 to play. In the second round, Gordon was defeated by Allis 4 up and 4 to play, and Van Auker was defeated by Davis 4 up and 3 to play. In the play for the president's cup, J. M. Hixon defeated P. E. Dutcher of Milwaukee, 2 up and 1 to play, and F. H. Hankerson advanced by default. In the second round Hankerson defeated Clark in twenty holes.

In a special medal score event for those failing to get into a flight contest the winner was C. J. Felber of La Crosse, who, shooting 93 with 27 handicaps, scored net 66. J. P. Miley, Blue Mound, with 96-27-69, was second, and H. M. Curtis, Madison, 97-26-71, was third.

Daily Thought.

The world would be better and brighter if people were taught the duty of being happy as well as the happiness of doing their duty. To be happy ourselves is a most effectual contribution to the happiness of others.—Sir John Lubbock.

Burst of Eloquence.

This is from Australia: "Gentlemen, a member of the house has taken advantage of my absence to tweak my nose behind my back. I hope that the next time he abuses me behind my back like a coward he will do it to my face like a man, and not go skulking into the thickets to assail a gentleman who isn't present to defend himself."

COSSACKS AMBUSH AND ANNIHILATE AUSTRIAN FORCE

PARIS Aug. 15.—The war office today confirmed the report that Russian Cossacks operating along the Dneister river had trapped and annihilated two entire regiments of Austrian cavalry.

The war office official representative says that the Austrians were ambushed by the Cossacks and their retreat cut off. In attempting to find a way through the Russian lines the Austrians lost their way in a stretch of boggy territory through which their horses could not penetrate. In this trap they were riddled by a Russian rapid fire detachment. Those not killed or wounded were taken prisoners.

Leonard Pitzer, a resident of the Fourteenth ward, passed away early on Thursday morning at the family home after a long illness. Mr. Pitzer's ill health was caused by tuberculosis and although an invalid for months he was able to be up and about the house until the day before his death. He is survived by his wife and five children.

The Boscobel fair is on this week, attended by many from this city, and contrary to its reputation as an unfailing rain maker, has not served this year to break the pronounced dry spell in this section.

Mrs. William Fletcher, nee Eda Rosenbaum, is here from Omaha, to make her annual visit to mother and sisters and many old time friends.

Dr. Robert Armstrong is absent on a business trip to Omaha.

F. E. England is here from Madison looking after business interests and visiting friends. Mr. and Mrs. England, who moved to Madison from Prairie du Chien last spring, are about to assume the management of the Y. M. C. A. restaurant in that city.

Miss Ella Wetzel is visiting friends at Hampton, Iowa.

Rev. W. A. Munday and a party of friends autoed over from Lancaster on Wednesday and were entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. A. Scanlan, the afternoon being spent on the river.

ECCENTRIC OLD MAN GIVEN HIS FREEDOM

A man may run about the streets clad only in summer underwear, may have imaginary sums of money in the bank, can act queer and have funny feelings in his head, and also abuse his wife and yet not be insane.

La Crosse physicians reported to Judge John Brindley in county court this morning that they had recognized these traits of Anthony St. Mary, an aged North side man, yet added the man was still sane.

According to the police and others St. Mary has been a burden to the neighborhood in which he lives. His wife is aged. It is said he abuses her continuously. It is alleged he runs about in his underclothing. The physicians who examined him said he has seven or eight thousand dollars in a La Crosse bank, and has $1,500 in an "imaginary bank."

St. Mary told the doctors he had "funny feelings" in his head at times.

MURDERER ARRESTED IN MADISONS TODAY

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 15.—A negro employed at the Hillside Home school at Hillside, near here, went crazy today, killing three persons, wounding several others on Frank Floy Wright's farm, and setting fire to the bungalow which at 3 o'clock this afternoon was reported destroyed.

The dead: Mrs. Hannah Borthwick, one caretaker, and Mrs. Borthwick's eight year old daughter. Mrs. Borthwick's daughter is injured and is not expected to live. Her little son is missing.

RAZEE TO SHOOT AT CLUB TOURNAY

GERMAN SHIPS FOR SALE

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—The Hamburg-American line officials here today announced that certain of their steamers, now in American ports, are for sale. Their vessels refuged in American waters are valued at $20,000,000.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Nobody can Tell when you Darken Gray, Faded Hair with Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and abundant with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," you will get a large bottle of this old time recipe, ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair and is splendid for dandruff, dry, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and abundant.

CITY DANCE HALLS MUST TOE MARK OR CEASE RUNNING

Something is the matter with all of the public dance halls of La Crosse, in the opinion of the police department and there is going to be a general brushing up of these places immediately. Last night the city council held up the licenses of every dance hall in the city until necessary improvements are made. The licenses were passed conditionally.

Among some of the changes to be made are the installation of sanitary bubblers drinking fountains, provision of adequate fire escapes, ventilators, toilets, washrooms, doors opening outward, new exits and unobstructed stairways.

Halls which applied for licenses last night and to which the new conditions were applied include Linker hall, K. of P. hall, Masonic hall, Union hall, Centennial hall, Governor's Guard hall, Concordia hall and the Armory.

Schubert's Bill is Paid After a lengthy controversy which has been before the council and various aldermanic committees for more than a year, the city guardians last night ordered the bill of Attorney A. H. Schubert of $260.46 for legal services paid in full. Schubert handled a case for the city before the state supreme court which began while he was in the city attorney's office but continued after his term of office had expired. His bill was for the extra time.

Aldermen opposed allowance of the account on the ground that it was exorbitant, several maintaining that the actual work on the case and the preparation of briefs was done when the attorney was in the employ of the city. A compromise payment of $200 was refused by Mr. Schubert and the final payment came only as result of a threatened lawsuit.

Complete reconstruction and enlargement of the public baths at Pettibone park is promised in a resolution by Alderman Grover which is now in the hands of a committee. Mr. Grover's plans call for practically a new bath house with an extension of the bathing beach 150 feet southward. An addition to the southern end of the bath house for the exclusive use of women is proposed, the men's section will be enlarged and a new office may be erected with a separate building for laundry.

It is the plan of the committee also to raise the roof of the structure several feet and extend it over the platform, which will be widened. New slides, springboards, and life saving scows also are included in the proposal.

North La Crosse also wants a bath. A petition was presented asking the establishment of a bath house and beach at Copeland park. The committee will view the premises. Students at the normal school were granted the privilege of converting the space inside the race course at the fair grounds into an athletic field. The Interstate Fair grounds is the property of the city and it was said the state will spend $5,000 in the field equipment.

Alderman Torrance's proposal to use the $2,000 remaining in the causeway paving appropriation for the repair of the Mormon Coulee road on condition that La Crosse county expend a like amount, was unanimously adopted. A committee was instructed to make the proposal to the county board of supervisors.

Residents along upper Rose street, where watermains are now being laid, were ordered to make their sewer connections while the trenching is under way.

Both the La Crosse Tribune and Leader-Press were constituted "official papers" of the city last night and the city clerk was instructed to apportion city advertising at the legal rate.

The police committee was authorized to sell the old patrol wagon.

The engineering department and committee on bridges were ordered to prepare plans and estimates for reflooring the wagon bridge and erecting a new sheer fence.

An ordinance reducing circus licenses to $200 was given its first reading.

A billiard hall license sought by Bruno Breuer, 813 Rose street, was denied.

Brick paving of Fifth street from Market to Jackson streets and the resurfacing of West avenue is under consideration in committee.

CONFIRMS SUICIDE OF GERMAN CHIEF

LONDON, Aug. 15.—The Brussels correspondent of the London Star wires that he has received positive word that General Von Emmich, the German commander at Liege, shot and killed himself. The correspondent quotes a Belgian sergeant who told of the suicide by a German officer, whom he captured.

"I know that Liege is to be my tomb, but I prefer to die by my own hand," is said to have been the message left by the German general to be transmitted to his wife.

The German officer also said that eight German soldiers killed themselves on learning of the general's suicide.

Whether you "look well in eye-glasses" or not depends upon the shape of the lens.

Your face isn't the shape or size of Cousin John's or Aunt Sue's. Then, why should all of you expect to wear the same shape and size lens and still have your glasses look well?

Our first consideration is of course accuracy and comfort. But we do not forget appearance.

We have our own prescription shop machines with which we shape from the rough crystal a lens that is best suited in shape and size to your features.

For Morris Everywhere

Mr. Morris' campaign through Wausara, Portage and Brown counties was featured by the absolute lack of antagonism and he has met warm receptions wherever he has gone.

At Wautoma, Washara county, on Wednesday night, he was introduced to a large audience by County Judge George P. Sorensen, as "the man who gave Mr. McGovern a chance to call a special session of the legislature and reduce the taxes, if he wanted to."

E. H. Miles, superintendent of schools for Waupaca county, is a Morris enthusiast who motored to Wautoma to hear the lieutenant governor speak.

"Last week I heard Mr. Philipp tell about the high taxes," said Mr. Miles. "I happen to know that Waupaca county gets back from the state practically every cent she sends to Madison. I believe this is true of other counties."

B. O. Storm, Plainfield, former assemblyman and one of the men who helped to elect "Bob" La Follette to the United States senate was another who journeyed to Wautoma to hear Mr. Morris.

Meets Leading Citizens At Almond, in Portage county, Mr. Morris this morning was greeted by O. A. Crowell, president of the Portage county bank; Dr. George D. Whiteside, Plover; W. E. Atwell, C. D. McFarland and Peter Hold, Stevens Point.

He left Almond in time to arrive at the Lanark Home-Coming, an annual event participated in by several hundred residents of that county and leaving Lanark was greeted at Amherst Junction by Dr. H. E. Gilette, L. L. Nelson, H. N. Nelson, prominent bankers, Julius Piddle and other influential citizens.

At Nelsonville C. L. Duxrud, leading merchant, led the reception committee composed of L. L. Lobers, retired farmer, L. H. Johnson, banker, and others.

It was here that Mr. Morris delivered a brief address, registering his respects to "Eleventh Story League" Philipp and the coterie of lobbyists whom he said are supporting him.

Amherst was the next place visited and there he was welcomed by A. L. Rounds and other men prominent in the civic life of that place.

STALWART IS HERE "FAITHFUL" GATHER

Emmanuel L. Philipp, stalwart candidate for governor, arrived in the city this morning at 10:40 over the Milwaukee road from Mauston. He had expected to make the journey by automobile. The plans were changed to save time.

The stalwart leader entered upon one of the busiest days of his jaunt through the state.

The following committee met him at the station: F. P. Hixon, P. J. Yerly, W. E. Barber, T. H. Spence, G. A. Kaeppler, J. G. Moore, J. F. Barnes, Harry Watkins, W. F. Hurtgen, John Salzer, A. L. Goetzman, Frank Strupp, N. M. Scott and A. Candrian.

The noon hour was devoted to five minute addresses in the factories. A reception at the Stoddard hotel was held for Mr. Philipp from 2 to 3 p. m. At the conclusion of the reception, he was taken about the city in an automobile.

Mr. Philipp will address a rally at the theater tonight.

DECREE DEATH TO ANY CIVILIAN INTERFERING WITH GERMAN ARMY

BERLIN, via ROME, Aug. 15.—The German government notified the governments of France and Belgium that, beginning today, all private citizens interfering in the slightest degree with the advance of the German army will be immediately shot. This notification is in response to the charges fathered in Belgium and France that the German army of invasion was violating the rules of civilized warfare.

The notification calls attention to the alleged slaying of German officers and men by Belgian citizens firing from the seclusion of their homes. It declares that Germany is compelled to resort to extreme measures. Then, in conclusion, the German government says:

"If the war thus assumes a brutal character, it will not be the fault of the German nation. German arms are fighting the enemies of Germany. If private citizens are to be slain because they participate in the war, the blame must be assumed by France and Belgium and not by Germany, which is driven thus to act in self-protection."

KING OF BELGIUM AS SOLDIER SHARES THE HARDSHIPS OF FRONT

BRUSSELS, Aug. 15.—Always popular, King Albert of Belgium is now the idol of the people. Clad in a simple blue uniform, bearing no insignia of his exalted rank, he moves from place to place at the front in a high powered automobile. His chauffeur and a single aide are his only escort. Few excepting the high officers recognize him. Others accept him as a companion and give him field rations and water as he requests them in a spirit of simple comradeship. But the news of his movements is spreading and now all soldiers are watching for his coming.

Yesterday he tried to enter the field hospital at the front. The sentry demanded the needed special pass. He said he had none, but that, as the king, he believed he could enter. It required a strenuous aide to get the sentry to consent.

When held up by the sentries he displays his military pass. It is the same as all others with this exception. Under the caption "Occupation" appears this sentence: "King of the Belgians."

A farmer's team towed the machine to La Crosse. Considerable damage was done to it.

SHEPHERD OF THE HILLS

Harold Bell Wright's most popular novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills," of which a million copies have been sold, has been made into a play by its author with the assistance of Elsbery W. Reynolds. The first production of this play in this city will take place at the La Crosse theater on Wednesday, August 19, where it plays its engagement.

The play is practically a true narrative of life among the humble dwellers of the Ozarks. The shepherd of the story is a cultured stranger who comes into the hills, glad to escape from the vanities and conventionalities to which he has been accustomed. He thankfully accepts the lowly occupation of a sheep tender, but soon becomes shepherd of a human flock, the big hearted mountaineers, their families and all who need a friend and advisor.

There is a mystery of the hills that often terrifies, but at last the solution is brought about. It is hardly necessary to add that a pretty romance is woven into the humor, pathos and tragedy, for the play throughout is one of human interest with a conclusion that is thoroughly satisfactory to Young Matt, and of course to the auditor.

Messrs. Gaskill and MacVitty, the producers, have given the play a superb scenic mounting and a cast that

VITALIZING A ROMANCE

It has been the fashion of late to picture the work of famous authors, and Selig has advanced this as a fine art in "The Spoilers" from the book of Rex Beach, in most spirited and vital fashion. This moving picture play in nine reels, had its first public representation, at the spacious and beautiful new Strand theater on Broadway, in New York city, and has continued there as the feature, arguing for its perpetuity and popularity. It followed this success as a fixture at the Studebaker theater, on Michigan avenue, Chicago, where it has continued to do wonderful business to "capacity houses." Will be at La Crosse theater for three days with a matinee each day, beginning Tuesday, August 25, with a matinee.

STAGE BEAUTIES COMING

The management of "At Gay Coney Island," the first of the Ned Alvord, Inc., attractions scheduled to appear at the La Crosse theater, August 30, matinee and night, lays especial stress upon the beauty of the several choristers with the attraction. The young women represent the pick of over two hundred who sought positions with this show.

Cardinals Other than Papal.

England has cardinals other than those created by the pope. At one time there were officials of that title attached to a number of our cathedrals, whose duty it was to visit the sick and relieve the needy, but St. Paul's is now alone in the possession of a senior and a junior cardinal, elected by the deans from among the minor canons. One of the holders of the title in recent times was the author of the "Jackdaw of Rheims."—London Chronicle.

Civilization.

It is the triumph of civilization that at last communities have obtained such a mastery over natural laws that they drive and control them. The winds, the water, electricity, all aliens that in their wild form were dangerous, are now controlled by human will, and are made useful servants.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Which?

Is woman more interesting than man, or the reverse? Man varies more. He has more genius in ex- ceptional individuals, and less of ge- nus-like insight in the average per- son. He competes; woman endures. He builds externally, she at home. He fights; she preserves. Our worth- less opinion is that men are more in- teresting than women, but that wom- an is more interesting than man.—Harper's Weekly.

Your Attitude Toward Money

Do you think of money as something to spend or something to save?

When a sum of money comes into your possession, do you at once think of what it will buy or of what it will earn?

A good many persons overlook the fact that when they spend a sum of money they give up the benefit of its earning power for life. If the expenditure is worth that, all right, but if it isn't you would do better to save the money and let it earn interest for you in a savings account.

A Different Boy

An interesting event occurred in the household of a scientific gentleman who is a member of one of Uncle Sam's chemical bureaus in Washington.

The gentleman himself was hard at work in his home laboratory when the news was brought to him.

"It's a boy," quietly announced the physician, as he stopped on the threshold.

"All right, all right," muttered the absent-minded chemist as he bent over his work. "Er—oh—ask him what he wants, won't you?"—Lippincott's.

His Probable Location

"Fred, do you remember where you were in 1910?" asked the bride of a few months.

"Why, no, dear; I don't remember exactly," replied the young husband.

"Why, do you ask?"

"Why, I was reading today in the paper that in 1910 one person in every 800 in the United States was in prison."

Getting in Line

The late Cy Warner, who deserted railway literature for a real railway job in Montreal, told this story at a luncheon not long before his death:

A Scotchman came upon an automobile overturned at a railway crossing. Beside it lay a man all smashed up.

"Get a doctor," he moaned.

"Did the train hit you?" asked the Scotchman.

"Yes, yes; get a doctor."

"Has the claim agent been here yet?"

"No, no; please get a doctor."

"Move over, you," said the Scot, "till I lie down beside you."—Detroit Free Press.

SPARTA BOY SCOUTS MAKE FIRST HIKE

Twelve Members of Sparta Troop Go to Little Creek for Two Days' Outing

SPARTA, Wis., Aug. 15.—Sparta's first troop of Boy Scouts took their first over-night hike last night. They assembled at the M. E. church and at promptly 2 o'clock Scout Master Picher and Patrol Leader Meacham gave orders to fall in and they began their hike to the place selected in Little Creek, on the La Crosse river.

Each scout carried two days' rations, blanket, hatchet, knife, fork and spoon, tin cup and a cooking utensil.

The following scouts made the trip: Paul Meacham, patrol leader; Arthur Dougherty, assistant patrol leader; Hughes Brenner, Francis Gray, Vernie Cornow, Forest Angle, Wayne Angle, Elmer Olsen, Edgar Hubbard.

One of Will Hemstock's lively teams ran away yesterday afternoon, causing damage to both the rig and the harness. The driver stopped to water the team at the trough in front of Al Hoffman's house, and when he checked up the near horse and started around to check the other, both horses started. They ran until stopped in Sparta by some men near the Sparta house.

CHURCH NEWS

C. E. Society Starts Fund Campaign

The Christian Endeavor society will start in September a campaign to complete its fund of $300,000 with which to build and equip its Christian Endeavor house in Boston. The site has been purchased and $150,000 raised. The plan is to secure the other half by November if possible. The new building is to be world headquarters for the movement and Endeavorers are being organized in bands for the purpose of securing definite if not large sums each.

Starting in 1881, the Christian Endeavor movement has spread over the world, until it has now 80,000 societies and 4,000,000 members. Almost all lines of educational and civic work are urged upon members. The latest and in some respects the largest is the ambition to wipe out all saloons by the year 1920. A special secretary having this as one aim has been engaged.

Start New Crusade For World Peace

The war in Europe, and especially the experiences of delegates who went to Constance at the beginning of August for a peace conference, have had one effect of bringing on a new crusade by the church in favor of world peace. In spite of declarations of war the conference actually came together in the German city, and sat for one day. Then its members hastened to London by the way of Holland, being protected by order of Emperor William and the Grand Duchess of Baden. Arriving in England an adjourned session was held, and the new crusade planned and announced.

There came, as new forces into the peace union supported by gifts from Andrew Carnegie, the council of British clergy, four hundred in number, and a newly formed council of French Protestant clergy, one hundred strong. Together these American, English and French clergymen declared the present to be the beginning of the end of autocracy and happily of big national armaments.

Germany Appeals to U. S. For Bibles

The American Bible society is among the first to feel effects of the war in Europe of all missionary agencies. Appeal comes from Germany for bibles and parts of bibles in German, Russian, French and Polish for distribution to soldiers. The society thinks this German agency purposes to distribute the Scriptures not among German troops only, but among others as far as it can. The American society was forced to reply that it has a small stock of bibles in any of the tongues named, and that it is forced to appeal at once for contributions to print copies. The plates are ready. In any event the society states that it is not certain of being able to deliver Bibles, even if it had plenty.

War Holds up Y. M. C. A. Work on Board Ships

Y. M. C. A. finds its ship-board emigration work, through the use of Association secretaries, almost wholly broken up by the war, and its European port work the same, save from Italian ports. Work heretofore carried on throughout southern Germany, in Austria and the Balkans, getting in touch with them until located on farms in the American northwest, is ended for the present. Ship secretaries are not, however idle, but are giving counsel in one of the most comprehensive industrial lines of effort ever taken up by the associations.

Utilizing college students in many cases, but drawing upon Christian men who are willing to give their time, associations are holding language, history, citizenship and good health classes in many cities. In San Francisco, Lawrence, Mass., Chicago and Akron, Ohio, the largest and best results have perhaps been attained. In Akron public school buildings have been loaned, and night classes formed. During a season just ended, 1,300 men were enrolled and more than 2,500 classes were taught. Twenty nationalities were represented in these classes. Citizenship papers were secured in great numbers. In not a few instances public school teachers take charge of classes. Many officers of associations hold this to be the most strategic opportunity for Christian service ever offered.

Sparta during the teachers' examinations. Fred A. Steele, chief local promoter of the Boy Scouts, visited their camp in Little Creek last night.

Misses Mattie Leffingwell and Alma Scholz went to Tomah yesterday to take the examination for second grade teachers' certificate.

It was stated on Wednesday that Art Shields spent two weeks fishing and caught one. He was fishing thirteen days and caught two.

Miss Harriet Murphy left Friday morning for Oaklee, Minn., to visit her sister, Mrs. Clare Hall. From there she will go to Seattle, Wash., where she will teach during the coming year.

Use Magazine Stories.
An invalid or aged person who enjoys magazine articles sometimes finds the magazines, with their bulk of advertising, hard to handle. If the magazines are taken apart by removing the little wire clips that bind the sections together, the stories or articles can be easily handled separately. And any article specially likely to be enjoyed by a friend at a distance can be sent by mail when separated in this way.

What Makes Flattery Welcome.
What makes a man susceptible to flattery is the fact that he welcomes anything that affords relief from the indiscriminate knocking.

AUSTRIA PASSES LIE TO ENGLAND

VIENNA, Aug. 15.—The Austrian foreign office tonight passed the lie to England. In an official statement reviewing the events culminating in the present general war, Austria says: "The effort on the part of England and France to place the responsibility for the war at Austria's door will fail. The war with Serbia was not even the contributing cause. That war was a just war, undertaken by a people who were compelled to defend their national honor."

"The charge made by France that Austrian troops had been sent to the French frontier to aid the German army is utterly unfounded. No such movement of Austrian troops ever took place. Therefore, England's alleged reasons for declaring war on Austria are deliberate lies."

Searching Criticism.

Five-year-old Herbert, son of a bookish family, had learned to read so early and so readily that his first glimpses of storyland were growing hazy in his memory. One day he confided to his mother, "Ruthie showed me her new book today, and it's the queerest thing you ever saw! Why, it just says, 'Is it a dog? It is a dog. Can the dog run?' and a lot of things like that! 'Course I was too polite to say so, but it didn't seem to me the style was a bit juicy!—Lippincott's.

Public Opinion.

People say how strong public opinion is; and, indeed, it is strong while it is in its prime. In its childhood and old age it is as weak as any other organism. I try to make my own work belong to the youth of public opinion. The history of the world is the record of the weakness, frailty and death of public opinion, as geology is the record of the decay of those bodily organisms in which public opinions have found material expression.—Samuel Butler.

Things to Worry About.

Tears do not accompany a baby's cries until it is three months old.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

The Noblest Arms.
We may talk what we please of lilies, and lions rampant, and spread eagles, in fields d'or or d'argent; but if heraldry were guided by reason, a plow in a field of arable would be the most noble and ancient arms.—Abraham Cowley.

TWO WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Chicago, Ill.—"I must thank you with all my heart for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I used to go to my doctor for pills and remedies and they did not help me. I had headaches and could not eat, and the doctor claimed I had female trouble and must have an operation. I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have taken it and feel fine. A lady said one day, 'Oh, I feel so tired all the time and have headache.' I said, 'Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,' and she did and feels fine now."—Mrs. M. R. KARSCHNICK, 1438 N. Paulina Street, Chicago, Illinois.

The Other Case.
Dayton, Ohio.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound relieved me of pains in my side that I had for years and which doctors' medicines failed to relieve. It has certainly saved me from an operation. I will be glad to assist you by a personal letter to any woman in the same condition."—Mrs. J. W. SHERER, 126 Cass St., Dayton, Ohio.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

HERZEGOVINA IS UP IN REVOLT

Austrian Government Faces Rebellion in Vassal Province of Serbs

ROME, Aug. 15.—Reports received here indicate that Austria is now facing revolution in Herzegovina that may seriously retard any operations against the combined Serbian-Montenegrin army now in Bosnia.

It is stated that the Herzegovinian people are well supplied with arms and ammunition that have been smuggled across the borders and that hundreds of them are already in the field against the Austrian garrisons. According to advices received from several sources on the Austrian frontier, the Serbian invasion is being pushed rapidly forward and constitutes a really formidable menace to Austria, which already is hard pressed by Montenegro on her borders. The newspapers are much concerned over the purchase of the Goeben and the Breslau by Turkey and are uniting in demanding that the Italian government serve formal notice on Turkey that these cruisers must be detained until after the war.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, Aug. 15.—Wheat was under severe selling pressure from the start today, following news of a decline of more than three cents at Liverpool. At the close this noon prices were 2½ to 2¾c under yesterday's closing figures.

Corn was down ½ to 1½c at the start with scarcely any demand in the early trading. Later in the forenoon a buying spurt checked the decline and the market closed with prices a shade to ½c over the opening figures.

Oats lost ½c at the start today on account of the weakness of the other grains and continued weak until the close.

Provisions were lower at the start today but regained most of the early loss.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD
BY HAL SHERIDAN

Training their heavy guns on the Giants, the Boston Braves battled through to another victory over the National league leaders. Their artillery soon routed big Jeff Tesreau and Demaree and Wiltse were treated no better.

The Pirates surprised everyone—themselves most of all—by winning their third straight game, Cincinnati being the victim.

The Phillies tried hard to lose, but the Dodgers refused to permit it, handing them the game in the ninth by some sand lot playing.

Walter Johnson checked the flying Mackmen, his home run giving Washington victory that his pitching deserved.

Frank Chance's fighting Yankees came from behind after the Red Sox had amassed four runs in the first inning and slugged out a victory.

Unbidden Guest.

Mrs. Uptump (to hostess)—"That grizzly-faced brute standing over there at the door had such poor taste as to refuse to get me a glass of water. Surely you didn't intend to invite such a man to your reception?"

Mrs. Hostess—"Don't fret, my dear. I didn't invite him. He is my husband."—Calumet.

In one of the first games of the year in which only local teams are interested, the Nelsons will meet the Burlington Trainmen at League park. The game will be called sharply at 3 o'clock.

Evil Effects of Fear.

Fear is the acid which is pumped into one's atmosphere. It causes mental, moral and spiritual asphyxiation, and sometimes death, death to energy and all growth.—Horace Fletcher.

EAGLES RETURN RUSHFORD GAME

Rushford will have a chance tomorrow to wipe out the sting of their defeat here some time ago by the Eagles when the La Crosse Aerie goes to Rushford tomorrow for the second clash of the past year.

Moppy Anderson is expected to do the throwing for the Minnesotans. Manager Ritter of the Eagles is undecided as to whom he will pit against the little fellow.

The Eagles will leave La Crosse tomorrow morning in automobiles.

CHALKY SQUIERS IN NO-HIT GAME

Big Hurler Lets Houston Down with No Hits and No Runs in Picnic Feature Friday

Repeating the performance of Saubert, Jim Squires yesterday let Barron's Colts of Houston down with no hits and no runs, the first time that the big thrower worked out with the La Crosse Eagles. Not a semblance of a bingle was made by the Colts that a most ardent supporter could credit as a hit.

The game yesterday was one of the features of the big creamery picnic at Houston, hundreds of people turning out to the fray. The Peterson band of twenty pieces furnished music for the event.

The final score stood 11 to 0 in favor of the Eagles. With ordinary support, Foss would have held the locals to a much smaller count and possibly have won the game, but errors at critical stages of the game proved his undoing.

Up to the ninth inning there was hope of the Houstons rallying and tying the score, but after the Eagles' half of the ninth, all hope vanished as six runs were brought in on five singles, a double, a triple, four errors and a stolen base.

Meinert starred at the bat with three hits and a walk in five times at bat. Roeder in five times up polid three hits, two of them three baggers.

On the slab, Squires had the advantage of Foss, striking out eight men as against his opponent's six. Both pitchers allowed two bases on balls.
